

What matters most?

National Palliative Care Week
19–25 May
2019

Join us to hear Senior Professor Kathy Eagar talk about Choices at End of Life

Date: Tuesday, 21 May 2019

Venue: The University Club
Hackett Drive Entrance #1
Hackett Drive, Crawley

Time: 7.00am to 9.00am

Cost*: $49 individual PCWA members and concession holders
$60 non-members

Register at:

<https://2019-npcw-breakfast.eventbrite.com.au>

RSVP by: 15 May 2019

cost includes gst but excludes Eventbrite booking fee*

All attendees will receive a take home pack of National Palliative Care Week resources and a copy of Palliative Care WA's revised Palliative Caring Booklet (released March 2019).

What matters most?

Senior Professor Kathy Eagar has over thirty five years' experience in health and community care systems as a clinician, senior manager and health academic. She is the lead Chief Investigator of the Palliative Care Outcomes Collaboration and a Chief Investigator on the NHMRC Centre of Research Excellence in End of Life Care.

Professor Eagar has authored over 450 papers and has an established track record of undertaking large and complex health service research projects and has significant expertise in the design and management of large multi-disciplinary research and evaluation projects with a well-established track record in research